PUBLISHED RESULTS-BASED PLAN 2013-14

1.1 MINISTRY OVERVIEW

The Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs (MAA) was created in 2007 to develop a stronger, broader partnership with First Nations, Métis and Inuit people in Ontario to fulfill Ontario's Aboriginal Agenda.

MAA leads corporate government initiatives on Aboriginal affairs, and coordinates cross-ministry Aboriginal policy initiatives and multi-lateral relationship processes.

1.1.1 Mandate

The Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs envisions a higher quality of life for Aboriginal people in Ontario through development of sustainable economies and improved social conditions.

MAA's mandate requires it to:

- Develop policy in partnership with First Nations, Métis and Inuit peoples, Ontario ministries and the federal government, where appropriate
- Settle land claims and address historic grievances more quickly
- Promote collaboration and coordination across ministries on Aboriginal policy and programs
- Set priorities for and track the progress of Ontario's Aboriginal agenda
- Enhance government and public awareness of Aboriginal people, issues and practices for consulting and engaging with Aboriginal people
- Help Aboriginal people to access Ontario government programs, services and information
- Encourage diversity, especially representation of Aboriginal people in the Ontario Public Service.

Building on this broad mandate, the strategic direction sets the focus on four areas:

- Building stronger relationships between Ontario and Aboriginal partners
- Improving social conditions and quality of life for Aboriginal people
- Increasing economic opportunity and sustainability for Aboriginal people
- Resolving land claim issues and working to achieve reconciliation between Aboriginal people and the Ontario government.

1.1.3 Ministry Programs and Activities

The Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs works to meet the Ontario government's Aboriginal Agenda to build trust, prosperity and hope with Aboriginal people through the following activities:

Meeting Legal Obligations

The Ministry is directed toward (i) meeting the Crown's legal obligations to Aboriginal peoples arising from section 35 of the Canadian Constitution, treaty and Aboriginal rights, provincial and federal legislation and policies, and (ii) fostering reconciliation between Ontario and Aboriginal Peoples living in Ontario.

1.2 HIGHLIGHTS OF 2012-13 ACHIEVEMENTS

The following section notes the highlights of achievements of the Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs through the 2012-13 fiscal year.

Meeting Legal Obligations

Meeting the Crown's legal obligations to Aboriginal Peoples arising from section 35 of the Canadian Constitution, treaty and Aboriginal rights, provincial and federal legislation and policies

Fostering reconciliation between Ontario and Aboriginal peoples living in Ontario:

- The Ministry worked jointly with First Nations and Métis to respond to the recommendations of the Report of the Ipperwash Inquiry through the Ipperwash Inquiry Priorities and Action Committee.
- The Ministry continues to undertake research regarding historic Métis communities and corporate policy development to ensure a one-Crown approach.

A significant milestone was achieved in the negotiation of a new Treaty with the Algonquins of Ontario with the public release of a Preliminary Draft Agreement-in-Principle in December 2012. Work was continued with the federal government and Algonquin representatives to consult with stakeholders and the public, including holding nine public information sessions in Eastern Ontario and Toronto.

Progress was made with Attawapiskat First Nation and partner ministries to resolve outstanding land issues in the community. Addressing these issues will facilitate development of critical housing and other community infrastructure requirements.

Improvements have been implemented to ensure that new land claim submissions are researched and assessed within three years of filing.

MAA signed a communications protocol with the Haudenosaunee Confederacy Chiefs Council to engage one another on issues of mutual importance, helping build a stronger relationship.

MAA provided funding in support of both the Mercury Disability Board operations and payments to beneficiaries of the Mercury Disability Fund. As of March 31, 2013 there were 188 beneficiaries of the Mercury Disability Fund.

APPENDIX: ANNUAL REPORT 2012-13

The Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs has a key role in providing advice to ministries as they develop programs, policies and initiatives that may impact Aboriginal peoples. In particular, MAA provided advice to various Ontario ministries on how to incorporate Aboriginal considerations in their policy development. Examples from 2012-13 include:

- recommending additions and revisions to the Great Lakes Protection Act and Strategy to better reflect First Nation and Métis interests;
- working collaboratively with the Ministry of the Environment to recommend various ways their Climate Ready initiative could incorporate Aboriginal specific considerations to mitigate climate change;
- advising the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines on how regulations and operational policies could be amended to better reflect Aboriginal considerations;
- working with the Ministry of Natural Resources to ensure that transformation plans, which includes modernizing approval processes, provides opportunities for First Nations and Métis to engage in these processes; and
- promoting the incorporation of Aboriginal Traditional Knowledge in policy development and implementation.

MAA led the performance measurement and tracking of results on Ontario's Aboriginal agenda. The Ministry also:

- worked collaboratively with partner ministries to lead the implementation and monitoring of an OPS-wide performance measurement framework, including the collection of quantitative and qualitative data; and
- provided an OPS-wide data request service, providing consistent Aboriginal statistics to be used across Ontario government and developed comprehensive Aboriginal-related data products to support the OPS in program and policy development.

MAA provided corporate policy and operational guidance and advice to ministries on meeting the Crown's legal duty to consult when the Crown undertakes activities that may impact Aboriginal and treaty rights. MAA provided input and advice to ministries in preparing legislation and regulations.

Reconciliation Activities

Responding to the Report of the Ipperwash Inquiry

The Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs is responsible for leading the government's response to the Report of the Ipperwash Inquiry. In 2012-13, the Ministry continued to work with partner ministries to track progress on the Ipperwash recommendations.

The Ipperwash Inquiry Priorities and Action Committee demonstrates the Province's commitment to develop stronger relationships with Aboriginal people in Ontario and to work collaboratively to improve socio-economic conditions and build new opportunities for Aboriginal people. Priorities for the Ipperwash Inquiry Priorities and Action Committee for 2012-13 were consideration of a Treaty Commission for Ontario, First Nations policing and heritage and burial sites. Ontario and Canada jointly funded an initiative led by the Chiefs of Ontario (COO) to determine perspectives on the potential scope, mandate and governance of a Treaty Commission. MAA also funded COO to hold a First Nations Knowledge Keepers and Guardians Gathering in March 2013 to discuss heritage and burial issues and the relations between First Nations and the various provincial ministries and agencies involved in heritage protection.

MAA continued to undertake research regarding historic Métis communities and corporate policy development regarding Aboriginal peoples and related issues. Significant among these projects is a tripartite (Ontario, Canada and Métis Nation of Ontario) joint research project into the existence of a rights-bearing Métis community that meets Powley criteria in the Mattawa-Nipissing region.

Improving Economic Growth/Creating Jobs

The Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs continues to support Aboriginal entrepreneurs and businesses through various tools and supports. These initiatives include the Ontario Aboriginal Business Directory. The Directory is a free, public tool with a searchable database of Aboriginal owned businesses in Ontario and information on the goods or services they provide. MAA also supports business development and growth through the ongoing distribution and promotion of the Aboriginal Business Development Toolkit. This resource provides valuable information to Aboriginal entrepreneurs about starting and growing their businesses.

The government's Aboriginal procurement pilot program is intended to facilitate access to provincial procurement opportunities for Aboriginal-owned businesses. The initiative supports Aboriginal communities and businesses by stimulating business opportunities and economic development, as well as promoting partnership opportunities between Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal businesses. Eligible procurements relate to goods and services the Province purchases that have a significant impact on or benefit to Aboriginal people, including procurements related to government programs and policies for Aboriginal people. The Ministries of Aboriginal Affairs, Transportation, Northern Development and Mines, and Natural Resources are among the ministries that have purchased goods and services from Aboriginal suppliers. These include such items as publishing promotional materials related to the government's Aboriginal economic development supports, tree clearing and planting services in southwestern Ontario, subject matter experts for Aboriginal awareness training, clean-up work related to the Mid-Canada Line Radar in the Far North, and Aboriginal community consultation in northwestern Ontario.

In 2012, the Métis Voyageur Development Fund (MVDF) was officially launched and began flowing funding to eligible entrepreneurs and Métis-owned businesses. The fund is an independent Métis economic development corporation that is receiving up to $30 million in provincial funding over 10 years (2011-2021). The MVDF uses provincial funds to support Métis entrepreneurs and businesses in the resource sector on an application basis.

In 2012-13, MAA, in partnership with the Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities and the Ministry of Natural Resources, successfully concluded the Northern Training Partnership Fund (NTPF). The fund was launched in 2010 with a $45 million investment over three years to prepare northern Ontarians for new jobs in emerging resources sectors; funding was budgeted to MAA and the Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities. Since 2010, MAA has provided NTPF nearly $30 million in funding to support 22 skills training projects for Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal people in communities across Northern Ontario. Approximately 2,400 northern Ontarians have participated in training projects in resource-related sectors, including mining, forestry, energy and the environment.

Building on the success of the NTPF, MAA is improving economic opportunities for First Nations near the Ring of Fire through additional skills training investments. Projects focused on providing social, community and economic development supports so communities have the skills needed to participate in resource development in the Ring of Fire. Examples of training and development opportunities supported in 2012-13 include heavy equipment operation, pre-employment trades training, and General Educational Development preparation.

MAA also worked with Aboriginal communities and organizations to regularly share key economic development information and resources. Examples include working with other provincial ministries to deliver information sessions on the government's business development tools and supports, the provincial procurement process, and funding programs for Aboriginal communities such as the New Relationship Fund and the Aboriginal Community Capital Grants Program. In 2012-13, MAA also supported economic development events, including the 2012 First Nations Economic Developers Association Annual Conference at Rama First Nation, the 2012 Aboriginal Entrepreneurs Conference and Tradeshow in Ottawa, and the 2013 I Do Business National Summit and Tradeshow in Toronto.

Improving Youth Outcomes

The Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs continues to work to close the socio-economic gap between Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal people. In 2012-13 MAA worked with the Ministry of Children and Youth Services (MCYS) and Aboriginal partners on key reports relating to child welfare including the work of the Aboriginal Advisor, John Beaucage, and the reports of the Commission to Promote Sustainable Child Welfare. MAA also worked in partnership with MCYS on engagement to support the development of an Aboriginal Children and Youth Strategy. As well, MAA continued to work closely with MCYS on the development of key supporting documents necessary to support the engagement process and is partnering with MCYS to kick off its initial engagement roundtables with Aboriginal partners in June 2013.

MAA partnered with the Ministry of Education in the development of a joint policy initiative aimed at improving education outcomes for First Nation students by supporting the successful transition of First Nation students from on-reserve to provincially funded schools. MAA assumed a leadership role in national efforts to address the Aboriginal education achievement gap by chairing the Aboriginal Affairs Working Group Education Sub-committee with provinces, territories and National Aboriginal Organizations. The Ministry also worked with the Ministry of Education in bilateral discussions with the Anishinabek Nation to ensure that educational outcomes are improved and to see how results can be replicated in other parts of the province.

MAA co-led the coordination of the provincial government's response to the Coroner's report on youth suicides in Pikangikum and provided support to Pikangikum First Nation's Health, Education and Elders Committee to develop a social development strategy for that community.

MAA provided support to Right to Play and the Belinda Stronach Foundation for deliver programming to Aboriginal children and youth. Right to Play is currently being offered in 45 communities, including three urban Aboriginal organizations. The Belinda Stronach Foundation's One Laptop Per Child Canada program delivered affordable laptops customized with Aboriginal content and learning tools to every child aged 6-12 in five First Nation communities in Ontario.

The Minister met with the Ojibwaa and Grand Council Treaty #3 Youth representatives as part of the Treaty #3 Bilateral Agreement. MAA provided further funding to Grand Council Treaty #3 Youth to develop a toolkit for outreach on Youth Council Formation to broaden youth participation and capacity across Grand Council Treaty #3 communities.

Through the Intergovernmental Network on Nishnawbe Aski Children and Youth (IGN), MAA worked in partnership with the Provincial Advocate for Children and Youth and members of the IGN (Nishnawbe Aski Nation, Grand Council treaty #3 and Robinson Superior First Nations) to deliver the Feathers of Hope Youth Forum, in order to address issues of youth suicide and hopelessness in northern communities.

Increased Capacity

The Ministry of Aboriginal Affairs provided funding to support the policy development and technical capacity in the Chiefs of Ontario and Provincial-Territorial Organizations (PTO's) through the Ipperwash Inquiry Priorities and Action Committee, the Métis Nation of Ontario, and the Ontario Federation of Indian Friendship Centres (OFIFC), in support of joint initiatives with MAA.

In January 2013, the government announced $3.1 million in targeted support for skills training, governance and capacity building for First Nation communities in the Ring of Fire area. Projects focused on providing social, community and economic development supports to improve community capacity to participate in resource development opportunities in the Ring of Fire. Capacity building projects included finance and administration training, strategic planning workshops, and computer and technology training.
